

The Second Edition of

WeMun

18th-19th June, 2022

Table Of Contents

1. THE SECRETARY-GENERAL'S MESSAGE
2. ABOUT WeMun
3. COMMITTEES
4. GENERAL INFORMATION
5. CONTACT US

THE SECRETARY-GENERAL'S MESSAGE

Dear Academicians

It gives me great pleasure to introduce the next edition of WeMun 2022 to you.

WeMun believes that everyone has something to contribute to the world in their own unique manner, and we want to be that catalyst for change. WE provide one of the most intellectually and academically competent platforms for young people to participate in a UN simulation. Instead of killing screen time scrolling, we want to give young minds the opportunity to develop their debating and public speaking skills during this difficult and testing time when everything is coming to a halt eventually due to rising cases and it is recommended to be at our abodes, we wish to give young minds the opportunity to develop their debating and public speaking skills. As a result, its significance is unrivalled.

Model United Nations (MUN) is an academic simulation of actual UN bodies and other forms of international affairs in which students engage as delegates, adopting the role of diplomats of the countries they represent. This activity aims to educate participants about current events, international events, and the United Nations agenda while also broadening their understanding of international politics, diplomacy, and the need for harmonious coexistence by discussing and deliberating on issues as diverse as "Gaining public trust and preparing for future epidemics" to "Sustainable resources and waste management" that affect the global community at large. It shall be a great honor and privilege for us to host the students of your institution in our next edition. We will make sure to give them the best of what we can provide as organizers and guild the skills with passion and prowess.

Regards

Piyush Pandit

Co-Founder/ Secretary General

WeMun

About WeMun

By assuming the roles of world leaders and international decision-makers at WeMun, delegates will acquire insight into the workings of the global organisation and, as a result, the dynamics of mediation. WeMun provides a unique chance for future leaders to discuss current issues and develop original, creative solutions. Throughout the process, participants will improve a variety of abilities, including speaking, negotiating, collaboration, leadership, and policy formulation.

WeMun aspires to provide a positive environment for free discussion on a variety of challenging subjects, including as international peace and security, as well as economic and social advancement. Delegates are challenged to think critically about the world around them, as well as to think in novel and impressive ways. How do we strike a balance between national interests and those of the international community? What can teens do to make a difference in their communities, and hence the world?

WeMun: Committees and Agendas

Committee descriptions:

United Nation Security Council(UNSC)

The United Nations Security Council, or UNSC, is one of the United Nations' five (active) primary organs. It is made up of five permanent members and ten rotating members, each of whom serves a two-year term. The five permanent members, often known as the P5, were key World War II winners. China, the United States, Russia, the United Kingdom, and France make up the P5. The most significant difference between the P5 nations and the 10 others is that the P5 nations each have the authority to reject any resolution that the body is considering.

One feature of the UN Security Council that sets it apart from the other UN entities is that its resolutions have some binding power. This is because, as stipulated in the United Nations Charter, the UNSC alone is capable of employing military force to oppose aggressors through the United Nations Peacekeepers. The UNSC can also impose sanctions on other countries, which it does far more frequently than direct military action. Delegates should investigate past Security Council resolutions and activities beyond those indicated in this background information (for example, UNSC resolutions on similar global conflicts) to gain a better understanding of the Council's role in historical and contemporary international affairs.

Agenda: Deliberation on the Syrian War

United Nations Environmental Assembly (UNEA)

The Future We Want, a paper produced by the United Nations Conference on Sustainable Development in 2012, advocated for the UNEP's role to be strengthened. As a result of this text, the United Nations Environment Assembly was founded in June 2012 through resolution 67/213. The UNEA was given the status of UNEP Governing Council shortly after, in March 2013. The UNEA became the world's highest-level decision-making body on environmental and related concerns as a result of this.

The UNEA tackles the world's most pressing environmental issues, encourages collaboration among member nations, and provides environmental direction to the UN and other stakeholders through resolutions and calls to action. Furthermore, the UNEP has several sections, including research, policy, and economics, that allow it to address intersectionality of environmental challenges.

The environmental portion of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, which sets the UN's goal for a more sustainable future, guides UNEA decisions. The full UNEA meets every two years, but member states meet informally throughout the year to organise for the conference. Many groups, like the African Biodiversity Network and the Indigenous Information Network, are granted observer status by the Assembly. These groups can speak at UNEA meetings and attend them, but they cannot vote on motions.

Due to conflicts between its jurisdictional constraints and the interconnectedness of environmental concerns, the Assembly has previously struggled to accomplish its purpose. As a result, rather of preventing environmental harm, the UNEA is frequently entrusted with investigating and limiting the consequences of hazards that cause environmental harm.

Agenda: Structuting methods for mitigating and adapting to desertification and drought while ensuring sustainable consumption and production.

Lok Sabha

The Lok Sabha (House of the People) is India's bicameral Parliament's Lower House, while the Rajya Sabha is the Upper House. Members of the Lok Sabha are chosen to represent their individual constituencies by adult universal suffrage and a first-past-the-post system, and they serve for five years or until the body is dissolved by the President on the suggestion of the council of ministers. The house meets in the Sansad Bhavan's Lok Sabha Chambers in New Delhi.

The Lok Sabha is made up of people's representatives who are elected directly via adult suffrage. The Constitution stipulates that the House have a maximum strength of 552, with 530 members elected to represent the States, 20 members elected to represent the Union Territories, and not more than two members of the Anglo-Indian Community nominated by the Hon'ble President if that community is not adequately represented in the House. The overall elective membership is apportioned among the States in such a way that the number of seats allotted to each State is proportional to its population. To the extent possible, state is the same for all States.

Agenda: deliberation on the kashmiri pandit exodus

International Press

IPC is unlike any other Model United Nations (MUN) experience. Delegates in IPC will be representing different international news agencies.

Reporters will have the chance to act as a third party in other committees to report on their progress, debate flow, alliance making etc.

Journalists won't only be writing articles throughout the conference. They will also be interviewing other delegates, participating in Q&As, talking to committees about emerging crisis.

Those who wish to join IPC should have a passion for journalism, or just writing in general.

World Health Organisation(WHO)

Special Committee

Only for Project Inclusion delegates

Founded in 1948, WHO is the United Nations agency that connects nations, partners and people to promote health, keep the world safe and serve the vulnerable – so everyone, everywhere can attain the highest level of health. The WHO's mandate seeks and includes: working worldwide to promote health, keeping the world safe, and serving the vulnerable. It advocates that a billion more people should have: universal health care coverage, engagement with the monitoring of public health risks, coordinating responses to health emergencies, and promoting health and well-being.

The Agenda for this year's WHO is Gaining Public Trust and Preparing For Future Epidemics, based on the one inequality that can be measured by a starkly visible yardstick- the number of preventable deaths. When coronavirus hit, it only left destruction in its wake. The world was not ready to handle the sudden lockdowns, economies collapsing, lakhs of people left homeless and helpless and the high demand of basic necessities. To prepare for the same, we bring this agenda under WHO. In this committee, the delegates will engage in a dialogue aiming to be ready by coming together and cooperating to find the desired solutions.

Agenda: the epidemic of psycho-social distress and mental illness
around the world

General Information

- The conference will follow Harvard recommended rules of procedures
- The background guides will be made available to the participants a week before the conference through Email.
- The registration fee is Rs. 300 per delegate.
- The delegates shall be competing for the following awards:
 - Best delegate(in all the committees)
 - Outstanding delegate(in all the committees)
 - Special mention(in all the committees)
 - Honorable mention(in all the committees)
 - Verbal mentions(in all the committees)

Contact us

Piyush Pandit

panditpiyush721@gmail.com

7650015810

Co-founder, Secretary General

Shresth Agarwal

shresthagarwal005@gmail.com

97172 41434

Under secretary General

Rizak Makkar

rizakmun@gmail.com

93007173644

Under secretary general of
Public Relations

Uma Shailendra Gangan

umagangan2003@gmail.com

7678099318

Under secretary General of Marketing

WeMun
wecanwewillwemust.